The base unit pull-out reaches a new level

With VS SUB® Larder you have flow!

Erkeln, 29/04/2021 – When do high-quality kitchens stand out? When design and function can be experienced throughout - right down to the inner core. And that is exactly where the Vauth-Sagel innovation VS SUB® Larder is located. The pull-out system for kitchen base units can confidently be called the "little brother" of the already established and successful VS TAL Larder® tall cabinet pull-out. Because the impressive features are on the same quality level: synchronised pull-out movement, hydro-damping system and a pioneering pull-out damping system.

"We have moved functionally to the global forefront with our leading systems. We also prove this claim with the VS SUB® Larder and have not forgotten that it is not just the function that customers appreciate, but a complete user experience," explains Vauth-Sagel Managing Director Claus Sagel, on the claim for the new pull-out system.

The VS SUB® Larder is available in the standard version with two or three storage elements in the Vauth-Sagel design variants Planero, Classic, Saphir and Premea. The lowest level always forms a storage element, the 2nd level can be equipped with modules of the VS ADD® Flex modular system, can be used from both sides and thus fulfils different functions.

Another detail relates to the inserts - they can be inserted at different heights within the existing hole pattern. The preferred areas of use are the kitchen and utility room. In combination with the flexible VS ADD® Flex modular solution, Vauth Sagel not only brings orderliness to interior spaces, but also ensures high and silent functionality. The individual inserts can be combined to create individually-themed sets and turns the new VS SUB® Larder base unit pull-out into a storage solution perfectly adapted to its surroundings.
