In a nutshell: “Ligano” is the new design line for the American market

A homage to traditional American kitchens

Erkeln, 09/05/2023 – With the launch of, “Ligano”, their latest design line for the North American market, VAUTH-SAGEL is active in a strongly tradition-driven market environment. The new design line impresses with a classic wood look in conjunction with unobtrusive metal accents for an extra design upgrade and a modern touch. Visually, the technology fades into the background. The portfolio is custom-tailored for the special construction-related requirements of the U.S. market in terms of dimensions and design. All design versions are suitable for both face frame and frameless cabinet construction. “Ligano” not only offers storage space design for traditional and modern American kitchens, but also high-quality inner compartment technology and a uniform veneer appearance.

“At VAUTH-SAGEL, we think in markets and not in borders. We are always oriented towards the needs of the markets in which we are active, and the North American market is one of our core markets,” said CEO Claus Sagel. “The new design line ‘Ligano’ is a perfect supplement for the North American market segment. We are proud to offer a design line that respects the preferences and needs of our customers while giving them a modern interpretation.”

A modern touch is added to the maple and birch plywoods used for “Ligano” through unobtrusive metal accents in the VAUTH-SAGEL colours lava or silver. Compatible with all face frame and frameless structures. They provide easy plug & play unlocking of the floor-mounted products. The flexible inner compartment technology of VS SUB® & VS TAL® Pantry and 3D front adjustment for all products with front connection ensure easy and customised adaptation to user needs.
